Spring Unity Pow Wow shows local traditions

Lumbee dancers take part in the annual Spring Unity Pow Wow, which took place inside the UC Annex due to rain on April 9.

A Lumbee traditional dancer participates in the dance circle.

A dancer kneels during his performance in the Pow Wow. The event was sponsored by the Native American Resource Center, the Native American Student Organization, AISES and other Native student groups.

Children also take part in the dance circle at the Pow Wow. Traditional American Indian music, dancing, arts and crafts were also part of the Pow Wow.

Dancers take a break to socialize during the Spring Unity Pow Wow.