Students display research at PURC

By Kayla Glafeiter
Staff Writer

On April 11, from 2 to 4 p.m. in the Campus Center lounge, a student ice cream social was held. The social presented an opportunity to view students' research posters and to talk to students about their research.

Students set up tables in a half-circle around the lawn from 12 to 3 p.m. Many students went to the event to learn about different cultures around campus. Many students also enjoyed the ethnic music and food. The food included injera, a spongy tortilla-like food and sambusa, a disk, injera, a spongy tortilla-like food and sambusa, a dish, injera, a spongy tortilla-like food and sambusa, a dish, and arroz con pollo, or “rice and beans.”

Students enjoyed the food and were able to choose from chocolate, vanilla, and also the team of Lonnie Wood, Ryan Wise, Kim Stepp and Kim- son. An honorable mention went to Austin Griffin. In the oral presentations Austin Griffin won first place for his research called “On the Electroluminescent Quantum Energy Relation,” and Maria Hockaday won second place for her research called “To Share a Skin: The Truly Tragic Character of Edwidge Dan- nie’s Eyes, Breath, Emotions.”

Honorable mentions went to Jamie Patterson, Tina Bianca Oviedo and Yi Yang. UNCP was a really good way to learn about the cultures already here,” Oviedo said. She also praised the food and free T-shirts.

It was a successful day with the turnout despite the weather. Students enjoyed the festival and recognized its importance in the community.

“We already know UNCP is diverse. This is a good way to learn about the cultures already here,” Oviedo said. She also praised the food and free T-shirts.

It was a successful day with the turnout despite the weather. Students enjoyed the festival and recognized its importance in the community.

“We already know UNCP is diverse. This is a good way to learn about the cultures already here,” Oviedo said. She also praised the food and free T-shirts.

It was a successful day with the turnout despite the weather. Students enjoyed the festival and recognized its importance in the community.

“We already know UNCP is diverse. This is a good way to learn about the cultures already here,” Oviedo said. She also praised the food and free T-shirts.

It was a successful day with the turnout despite the weather. Students enjoyed the festival and recognized its importance in the community.

“We already know UNCP is diverse. This is a good way to learn about the cultures already here,” Oviedo said. She also praised the food and free T-shirts.

It was a successful day with the turnout despite the weather. Students enjoyed the festival and recognized its importance in the community.

“We already know UNCP is diverse. This is a good way to learn about the cultures already here,” Oviedo said. She also praised the food and free T-shirts.

It was a successful day with the turnout despite the weather. Students enjoyed the festival and recognized its importance in the community.

“We already know UNCP is diverse. This is a good way to learn about the cultures already here,” Oviedo said. She also praised the food and free T-shirts.

It was a successful day with the turnout despite the weather. Students enjoyed the festival and recognized its importance in the community.

“We already know UNCP is diverse. This is a good way to learn about the cultures already here,” Oviedo said. She also praised the food and free T-shirts.

It was a successful day with the turnout despite the weather. Students enjoyed the festival and recognized its importance in the community.

“We already know UNCP is diverse. This is a good way to learn about the cultures already here,” Oviedo said. She also praised the food and free T-shirts.

It was a successful day with the turnout despite the weather. Students enjoyed the festival and recognized its importance in the community.

“We already know UNCP is diverse. This is a good way to learn about the cultures already here,” Oviedo said. She also praised the food and free T-shirts.

It was a successful day with the turnout despite the weather. Students enjoyed the festival and recognized its importance in the community.

“We already know UNCP is diverse. This is a good way to learn about the cultures already here,” Oviedo said. She also praised the food and free T-shirts.

It was a successful day with the turnout despite the weather. Students enjoyed the festival and recognized its importance in the community.

“We already know UNCP is diverse. This is a good way to learn about the cultures already here,” Oviedo said. She also praised the food and free T-shirts.

It was a successful day with the turnout despite the weather. Students enjoyed the festival and recognized its importance in the community.

“We already know UNCP is diverse. This is a good way to learn about the cultures already here,” Oviedo said. She also praised the food and free T-shirts.

It was a successful day with the turnout despite the weather. Students enjoyed the festival and recognized its importance in the community.

“We already know UNCP is diverse. This is a good way to learn about the cultures already here,” Oviedo said. She also praised the food and free T-shirts.

It was a successful day with the turnout despite the weather. Students enjoyed the festival and recognized its importance in the community.

“We already know UNCP is diverse. This is a good way to learn about the cultures already here,” Oviedo said. She also praised the food and free T-shirts.

It was a successful day with the turnout despite the weather. Students enjoyed the festival and recognized its importance in the community.

“We already know UNCP is diverse. This is a good way to learn about the cultures already here,” Oviedo said. She also praised the food and free T-shirts.

It was a successful day with the turnout despite the weather. Students enjoyed the festival and recognized its importance in the community.

“We already know UNCP is diverse. This is a good way to learn about the cultures already here,” Oviedo said. She also praised the food and free T-shirts.

It was a successful day with the turnout despite the weather. Students enjoyed the festival and recognized its importance in the community.

“We already know UNCP is diverse. This is a good way to learn about the cultures already here,” Oviedo said. She also praised the food and free T-shirts.

It was a successful day with the turnout despite the weather. Students enjoyed the festival and recognized its importance in the community.

“We already know UNCP is diverse. This is a good way to learn about the cultures already here,” Oviedo said. She also praised the food and free T-shirts.

It was a successful day with the turnout despite the weather. Students enjoyed the festival and recognized its importance in the community.

“We already know UNCP is diverse. This is a good way to learn about the cultures already here,” Oviedo said. She also praised the food and free T-shirts.

It was a successful day with the turnout despite the weather. Students enjoyed the festival and recognized its importance in the community.

“We already know UNCP is diverse. This is a good way to learn about the cultures already here,” Oviedo said. She also praised the food and free T-shirts.

It was a successful day with the turnout despite the weather. Students enjoyed the festival and recognized its importance in the community.

“We already know UNCP is diverse. This is a good way to learn about the cultures already here,” Oviedo said. She also praised the food and free T-shirts.

It was a successful day with the turnout despite the weather. Students enjoyed the festival and recognized its importance in the community.

“We already know UNCP is diverse. This is a good way to learn about the cultures already here,” Oviedo said. She also praised the food and free T-shirts.

It was a successful day with the turnout despite the weather. Students enjoyed the festival and recognized its importance in the community.

“We already know UNCP is diverse. This is a good way to learn about the cultures already here,” Oviedo said. She also praised the food and free T-shirts.

It was a successful day with the turnout despite the weather. Students enjoyed the festival and recognized its importance in the community.

“We already know UNCP is diverse. This is a good way to learn about the cultures already here,” Oviedo said. She also praised the food and free T-shirts.

It was a successful day with the turnout despite the weather. Students enjoyed the festival and recognized its importance in the community.

“We already know UNCP is diverse. This is a good way to learn about the cultures already here,” Oviedo said. She also praised the food and free T-shirts.

It was a successful day with the turnout despite the weather. Students enjoyed the festival and recognized its importance in the community.

“We already know UNCP is diverse. This is a good way to learn about the cultures already here,” Oviedo said. She also praised the food and free T-shirts.