By Nick Phillips
Editor

Former UNCP Chancellor Allen Meadors (left) speaks with Pepsi North American President Hugh Johnson (right) on the second floor of the Student Union in the 4th Annual Social Justice Symposium on Aug. 31.

Former UNCP Chancellor Allen Meadors resigned from his post as the President of Central Arkansas University in July 2009. He attended Central Arkansas as an undergraduate. In July 2009, he attended Central Arkansas as an undergraduate.

The controversy came about after Meadors admitted accepting $700,000 “unrestricted grant in the amount of $700,000” to help UCA’s food service vendors.

According to the Log Cabin Democrat newspaper in Conway, Ark, home of UCA, it was “a noticeable grant in the amount of $700,000” to help UCA’s food service vendors.

The controversy came about after Meadors admitted accepting $700,000 “unrestricted grant in the amount of $700,000” to help UCA’s food service vendors.

The controversy came about after Meadors admitted accepting $700,000 “unrestricted grant in the amount of $700,000” to help UCA’s food service vendors.

The controversy came about after Meadors admitted accepting $700,000 “unrestricted grant in the amount of $700,000” to help UCA’s food service vendors.

The controversy came about after Meadors admitted accepting $700,000 “unrestricted grant in the amount of $700,000” to help UCA’s food service vendors.

The controversy came about after Meadors admitted accepting $700,000 “unrestricted grant in the amount of $700,000” to help UCA’s food service vendors.

The controversy came about after Meadors admitted accepting $700,000 “unrestricted grant in the amount of $700,000” to help UCA’s food service vendors.

The controversy came about after Meadors admitted accepting $700,000 “unrestricted grant in the amount of $700,000” to help UCA’s food service vendors.

The controversy came about after Meadors admitted accepting $700,000 “unrestricted grant in the amount of $700,000” to help UCA’s food service vendors.

The controversy came about after Meadors admitted accepting $700,000 “unrestricted grant in the amount of $700,000” to help UCA’s food service vendors.

The controversy came about after Meadors admitted accepting $700,000 “unrestricted grant in the amount of $700,000” to help UCA’s food service vendors.

The controversy came about after Meadors admitted accepting $700,000 “unrestricted grant in the amount of $700,000” to help UCA’s food service vendors.

The controversy came about after Meadors admitted accepting $700,000 “unrestricted grant in the amount of $700,000” to help UCA’s food service vendors.

The controversy came about after Meadors admitted accepting $700,000 “unrestricted grant in the amount of $700,000” to help UCA’s food service vendors.

The controversy came about after Meadors admitted accepting $700,000 “unrestricted grant in the amount of $700,000” to help UCA’s food service vendors.

The controversy came about after Meadors admitted accepting $700,000 “unrestricted grant in the amount of $700,000” to help UCA’s food service vendors.

The controversy came about after Meadors admitted accepting $700,000 “unrestricted grant in the amount of $700,000” to help UCA’s food service vendors.

The controversy came about after Meadors admitted accepting $700,000 “unrestricted grant in the amount of $700,000” to help UCA’s food service vendors.

The controversy came about after Meadors admitted accepting $700,000 “unrestricted grant in the amount of $700,000” to help UCA’s food service vendors.

The controversy came about after Meadors admitted accepting $700,000 “unrestricted grant in the amount of $700,000” to help UCA’s food service vendors.

The controversy came about after Meadors admitted accepting $700,000 “unrestricted grant in the amount of $700,000” to help UCA’s food service vendors. 