Students’ cars windows smashed

When the power went out in Pembroke on Nov. 14, the residents at the Commons apartment complex were more than just upset by the dark, they were scared. It is a guarded community, the back window of more than a dozen cars were smashed in by a hammer. One car had its windows damaged.

Around 2:47 a.m. students were notified that numerous cars in the parking lot had been broken into, later finding their back windows had been shattered. The line of cars right outside buildings ‘F’ and ‘E’ had been attacked, as well as a few others in the parking lot. Each one that had easy access to its back window was the second to be smashed.

“I couldn’t believe it,” said a second-year resident, “I was so scared.”

By Staff reports

BB gun leads to evacuation, charges

By Christian Felkl

The Pine Needle

Inside

By Layla Pearson

Tuition hikes likely

The Division of Academic Affairs has proposed a 3.99 percent tuition increase in the amount of $80 for resident tuition and no increase in nonresident tuition.

This is a $22 increase to the $58 tuition raise this year.

Twenty-five percent, $20, of the increase is to go back toward the UNCP Need-Based Student Financial Aid Program in order to ensure that needy students won’t be harmed by the increase and to support other students on financial aid.

Another 25 percent will serve as a resource pool for recruiting and retaining faculty, focusing on minority faculty and dual career academics couples.

“We’ve got a tough economy here,” said Provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs Charles Harrington. “We want to make sure the faculty in the classroom have the best opportunity to do their best work. We want to make sure that every dollar that we can bring to the university, said Dr. Harrington.

“...we would not jeopardize our provost and vice chancellor’s ability to make plans that he used to make his decision.”

The first plan came from Dr. Harrington who asked for a 4.9 percent increase of $100. The second came from a committee of two faculty, six staff and two students.

This committee was given the request of the Provost and from that determined their own request of $57, a 3.4 percent increase.

“The Division of Academic Affairs has proposed a 3.99 percent tuition increase in the amount of $80 for resident tuition and no increase in nonresident tuition. This is a $22 increase to the $58 tuition raise this year." said Provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs Charles Harrington.

“We want to make sure the faculty in the classroom have the best opportunity to do their best work. We want to make sure that every dollar that we can bring to the university.” said Dr. Harrington.

“We’ve got a tough economy here,” said Provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs Charles Harrington. “We want to make sure the faculty in the classroom have the best opportunity to do their best work. We want to make sure that every dollar that we can bring to the university.” said Dr. Harrington.

“We want to make sure the faculty in the classroom have the best opportunity to do their best work. We want to make sure that every dollar that we can bring to the university.” said Provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs Charles Harrington.

“We’ve got a tough economy here," said Provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs Charles Harrington. "...we would not jeopardize our provost and vice chancellor’s ability to make plans that he used to make his decision.”

The first plan came from Dr. Harrington who asked for a 4.9 percent increase of $100. The second came from a committee of two faculty, six staff and two students.

This committee was given the request of the Provost and from that determined their own request of $57, a 3.4 percent increase.

“The Division of Academic Affairs has proposed a 3.99 percent tuition increase in the amount of $80 for resident tuition and no increase in nonresident tuition. This is a $22 increase to the $58 tuition raise this year." said Provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs Charles Harrington.

“We want to make sure the faculty in the classroom have the best opportunity to do their best work. We want to make sure that every dollar that we can bring to the university.” said Dr. Harrington.

“We’ve got a tough economy here," said Provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs Charles Harrington. "...we would not jeopardize our provost and vice chancellor’s ability to make plans that he used to make his decision.”

The first plan came from Dr. Harrington who asked for a 4.9 percent increase of $100. The second came from a committee of two faculty, six staff and two students.

This committee was given the request of the Provost and from that determined their own request of $57, a 3.4 percent increase.

“The Division of Academic Affairs has proposed a 3.99 percent tuition increase in the amount of $80 for resident tuition and no increase in nonresident tuition. This is a $22 increase to the $58 tuition raise this year." said Provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs Charles Harrington.

“We want to make sure the faculty in the classroom have the best opportunity to do their best work. We want to make sure that every dollar that we can bring to the university.” said Dr. Harrington.

“We’ve got a tough economy here," said Provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs Charles Harrington. "...we would not jeopardize our provost and vice chancellor’s ability to make plans that he used to make his decision.”

The first plan came from Dr. Harrington who asked for a 4.9 percent increase of $100. The second came from a committee of two faculty, six staff and two students.

This committee was given the request of the Provost and from that determined their own request of $57, a 3.4 percent increase.

“The Division of Academic Affairs has proposed a 3.99 percent tuition increase in the amount of $80 for resident tuition and no increase in nonresident tuition. This is a $22 increase to the $58 tuition raise this year." said Provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs Charles Harrington.

“We want to make sure the faculty in the classroom have the best opportunity to do their best work. We want to make sure that every dollar that we can bring to the university.” said Dr. Harrington.

“We’ve got a tough economy here," said Provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs Charles Harrington. "...we would not jeopardize our provost and vice chancellor’s ability to make plans that he used to make his decision.”

The first plan came from Dr. Harrington who asked for a 4.9 percent increase of $100. The second came from a committee of two faculty, six staff and two students.

This committee was given the request of the Provost and from that determined their own request of $57, a 3.4 percent increase.

“The Division of Academic Affairs has proposed a 3.99 percent tuition increase in the amount of $80 for resident tuition and no increase in nonresident tuition. This is a $22 increase to the $58 tuition raise this year." said Provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs Charles Harrington.

“We want to make sure the faculty in the classroom have the best opportunity to do their best work. We want to make sure that every dollar that we can bring to the university.” said Dr. Harrington.

“We’ve got a tough economy here," said Provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs Charles Harrington. "...we would not jeopardize our provost and vice chancellor’s ability to make plans that he used to make his decision.”

The first plan came from Dr. Harrington who asked for a 4.9 percent increase of $100. The second came from a committee of two faculty, six staff and two students.

This committee was given the request of the Provost and from that determined their own request of $57, a 3.4 percent increase.

“The Division of Academic Affairs has proposed a 3.99 percent tuition increase in the amount of $80 for resident tuition and no increase in nonresident tuition. This is a $22 increase to the $58 tuition raise this year." said Provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs Charles Harrington.

“We want to make sure the faculty in the classroom have the best opportunity to do their best work. We want to make sure that every dollar that we can bring to the university.” said Dr. Harrington.

“We’ve got a tough economy here," said Provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs Charles Harrington. "...we would not jeopardize our provost and vice chancellor’s ability to make plans that he used to make his decision.”

The first plan came from Dr. Harrington who asked for a 4.9 percent increase of $100. The second came from a committee of two faculty, six staff and two students.

This committee was given the request of the Provost and from that determined their own request of $57, a 3.4 percent increase.

“The Division of Academic Affairs has proposed a 3.99 percent tuition increase in the amount of $80 for resident tuition and no increase in nonresident tuition. This is a $22 increase to the $58 tuition raise this year." said Provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs Charles Harrington.

“We want to make sure the faculty in the classroom have the best opportunity to do their best work. We want to make sure that every dollar that we can bring to the university.” said Dr. Harrington.

“We’ve got a tough economy here," said Provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs Charles Harrington. "...we would not jeopardize our provost and vice chancellor’s ability to make plans that he used to make his decision.”

The first plan came from Dr. Harrington who asked for a 4.9 percent increase of $100. The second came from a committee of two faculty, six staff and two students.

This committee was given the request of the Provost and from that determined their own request of $57, a 3.4 percent increase.

“The Division of Academic Affairs has proposed a 3.99 percent tuition increase in the amount of $80 for resident tuition and no increase in nonresident tuition. This is a $22 increase to the $58 tuition raise this year." said Provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs Charles Harrington.

“We want to make sure the faculty in the classroom have the best opportunity to do their best work. We want to make sure that every dollar that we can bring to the university.” said Dr. Harrington.